THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

HARRISON'S COMMONPLACE
MESSAGE THE TOPIC OF TALK.

Only a Faint Echo of the Letter of Acceptance Shall the Congressmen on the Federal Election Law Suggestions—Proceedings of Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, December 4, 1880.

The talk here is not by any means what is technically termed gossip, for, barring those that go around bearing grapes and announcing society of various grades from the boarding house to the Club, not one man or woman who is not on the subject of the Federal Election Law. The message is still being turned on the spit of criticism, and generally warm of again after the first cooling of the day, but the advisory address. But will it be a party document, fairly reflecting exactly the same ideas of Mr. Harrison's letter of acceptance and in the tone of centralization.
The characters are not always strong, but the idea and instruction are there all the same. After long drawn passages of solemn verbiage there came certain high-sounding notes for the subsidy to ships between our ports and those of the South American coast. And after a mile and beautiful discussion, on our peaceful relations with other countries, we revert to the remarks on the tariff which are a paraphrase of the accepted Republican idea of protecting monopoly. And then, like the butt of a blessing, as wicked Gloom says in the play, there is the statement that our surplus in two years amounts to $108,000,000.

THE SUBSIDY TO OUR SHIPS TRADING TO SOUTH America, and to merchant ships for the navy, is one of the first topics of high G.

O. P. statesmanship yet put on the political stage, for, for it is made on the model of the table that makes death for the frogs but fun for the boys.

IT HAS LONG BEEN THE HONORED CUSTOM of the House of Representatives when two members of the floor of the chamber, for only one and a notice of contest from the other, to arrange the delicate question that both parties, though in one sense or the other, could be soothed with government pay; that is, one drew the salary and the other got the expenses for the contest. And as the contested cases were always left to the fall end of the last session of course the country paid double for a member of Congress in any number of cases where $5,000 a year was considered high for one, even by the constituents, who had been bought by the oratory.

THE WORLD'S FAIR OF '82

The canvass made by the New York World, showing that only a small minority of the members of the American people sustain the Commission's project in the decision, and if the Commission persists he will appeal to Congress for the passage of a joint resolution for the restoration of Buffalo Bill's rights. Of the favor of Congress he has no doubt. Should the Commission call, however, will it be able to steal some indign of an inferior pattern as a rival show did a year ago, or as a last resort hire some of the Canadian variety, an unpatriotic thing that would cut Bill's patriotic heart to the quick.
